Issue description 4XX HTTP status codes indicate that the requested page or resource cannot be accessed. 4XX URLs provide a poor user experience for the site's visitors because they cannot access the page or file via the link they clicked on. Moreover, internal links to 4XX URLs drain your crawl budget. Pages of your website that changed their response code to 4XX will be removed from search engine indexes.		How to fix Review the list of 4XX URLs and analyze every internal page that's linked to a 4XX URL. Remove such broken links or replace them with appropriate links to live and accessible pages. Moreover, you can set up 301 redirects when moving or deleting the site's pages to avoid having 4XX errors. The HTTP response code 429 (Too Many Requests) may indicate that the crawl rate specified under the crawl settings for your project is too high for the web server to handle. Decrease it via the settings (Limits and restrictions) and rescan the project.

Issue description

Redirect landing pages return a 4XX or 5XX response code. These pages were either deleted or are inaccessible due to server problems. As a result, search engine robots are not able to crawl such pages, and visitors who see an error in the browser will most likely leave your site.

How to fix

Replace the target redirect page address with the relevant one if the page returns a 4XX response code. A 5XX response code indicates that there's a problem with the site's web server. The error may be temporary and mean that technical work was carried out on your server during the crawl. Check the web server error log, and if server problems occur regularly, identify the cause and fix it.

Issue description The pages indicated in the report return a 3XX response code, meaning that a redirect is set up from such pages. The 3XX response code in itself is not a problem, but each redirect puts an additional load on the server, so it's better to remove unnecessary internal redirects.	How to fix Make sure that the number of 3XX pages on your website does not exceed 5% of the total number of pages. If their number exceeds 10%, then you have a critical problem, and you should immediately remove some of the redirects.

Search engines can use the description meta tag to generate descriptions for snippets, but they may shorten it to a length they deem acceptable. For this reason, it's important that the page description is clear and concise, and defines the page's topic.
The general recommendation is to keep your page description length up to 158 characters, although Google can sometimes display longer snippets.

Issue description The access path to some images on your website is indicated in the URLs from which the redirect is set up. Issue description

HTTP response compression is not enabled on your website. Compressing JavaScript files significantly reduces their size as well as the overall size of your web page, improving the page load time as a result.

Uncompressed JavaScript files make your web page load slower, which has a negative impact on the user experience and search engine rankings.

If you use uncompressed JavaScript files from an external resource, make sure that they do not slow down your page load time. Otherwise, contact the owner of the resource where the JavaScript files are stored with a request to configure compression.

Issue description Some internal links on your website point to pages whose URL has changed. Redirects allow both visitors and search engines to access the relevant page, but we still recommend you replace such links. In some cases, such links may cause the page to work incorrectly (for example, if the site was moved to HTTPS and internal links still use the HTTP protocol). Redirects also result in the loss of a small fraction of the link juice.	How to fix Replace all internal links indicated in the report with up-to-date page URL addresses.

Issue description Some pages that you link out to from your website redirect visitors to a completely different page. Perhaps the redirect was set up after you linked out to the website, and now the link can lead visitors to another page that does not contain the information they need.	How to fix Manually look through every external 3XX link and make sure that redirected pages contain the necessary information. If there information is there, replace the link with the new version of the URL. If the required information is not available, replace or delete the link.
